

Nov update

Mac

Wed, Nov 6, 8:59 AM (1 day ago)

to

Looks like Trump has another chance to show us what he can do. I am somewhat relieved to see the change in power, but my faith and trust is not in any government, but in God. I have already heard statements like, "God is blessing America, letting Trump win." I believe we had Biden because God put him there. I do pray for America, for our leaders, and especially for the souls of all men. Our Lord is doing a mighty work. I do not want to be part of His plan; I want to have a part in His plan.

The update on Ruslan is worse. I wish I had some good news. His mobility is worse. He has had more pain in his head. We took him to the doctor, who gave us all the bad news. We took him to an eye doctor, her test showed he is blind. He has not been able to read our messages well for a while now. We did an MRI and just got the results today. It seems to us that the tumors have gotten larger. An American doctor came and looked at him. He believes it is not right to put a shunt back in, currently. I know Ruslan will not get back any hearing or vision. The damage to the brain is irreversible. The only thing we will gain is maybe less pain. He has gone down so fast, much faster than the doctors told us he would. It was just six months ago he was walking, talking, and could hear most of what you said. Today, he cannot hear us, cannot read what we write, cannot control his bladder, and cannot move without help.

We still meet and 21:30 Kyrgyz time, for prayer. I still believe that God can heal, God can do whatsoever God wants to do. If our Lord does not wish to heal Ruslan, it is my prayer that He will not let him suffer.

Looking up,
Allen
Ps. 16:11